T Tester Summary

NAME

Sharon Johnson

WORKOUT

Triathlon Training

PLACE

Andover, Massachusetts

RESULT

“Because I am in close contact with my students, I am often concerned that I might smell while leading them in sweaty workouts. With Agion Active, I can interact with my students without worrying about offensive odor.”

Suggested uses for Agion Active Technology

“I would like to see Agion Active incorporated into female workout gear, like sports bras and tank tops.”

Sharon Johnson is an athletic trainer at the YMCA, where she trains students to participate in triathlons. Sharon is also a cycling coach and a strength training teacher. Fitness and exercise are a way of life for Sharon and when she is not teaching at the YMCA, she enjoys trail running, cross training and competing in triathlons herself.

“Fitness is my job,” said Sharon Johnson. “But it is also a source of fun for me. I love competing in triathlons, and I enjoy helping students train for their next swim, run or cycling race. I tend to get really sweaty when I work out and often wonder if I’m offending my students with my smelliness! When I heard about Agion Active’s anti-stink technology, I was happy to try it out.”

“Now that I experienced how well Agion Active’s technology works, I don’t need to worry about offensive odor when I interact closely with my students.”

For the test, Sharon gave her Agion Active shirt a sweaty beating by wearing it to teach several fitness classes where she guided students in strength training, cycling and cardio exercises. Even after her rigorous cross training workouts, Sharon said she didn’t stink.

“I always push myself to the max to motivate all my fitness classes,” said Sharon. “Now that I experienced how well Agion Active’s technology works, I don’t need to worry about offensive odor when I interact closely with my students.”
